

Nuts & Bolts of Illinois Probate Estate Administration

I. Who is an Executor?

An executor is a fiduciary, and as such, has a duty to its beneficiaries to carry out the terms of a Will with the highest degree of fidelity and good faith.²

- A. An Executor or Personal Representative is appointed under the decedent's Will. The document itself and/or state law dictates the applicable nomenclature in a particular case. For convenience, these materials utilize the term executor and assume the decedent died testate, but practitioners should keep in mind that separate rules often apply to executors as compared to administrators in an intestacy proceeding.
- B. Representative or Independent Representative - Illinois Probate Act of 1975, 755 ILCS § 5/1. This includes both an executor named under the terms of a Will and an administrator in the case of a decedent who dies intestate. 755 ILCS § 5/9-1.
- C. Statutory Executor as defined by federal tax laws - IRS Code § 2203:
 - . . . the executor or administrator of the decedent, or, if there is no executor or administrator appointed, qualified, and acting within the United States, then any person in actual or constructive possession of any property of the decedent.

II. To Probate or Not to Probate

A. State Law Considerations

Probate laws vary widely from state to state and even greater variation exists by virtue of the many specific court rules that vary by county. At the decedent's death, a preliminary consideration is to determine which governing law will apply. For individuals with multiple residences, the answer is not always obvious.

- If the decedent left a Will, does the Will dictate governing law? Check the decedent's Will to see whether it provides for a particular law to govern its terms. If not, look to the governing law of the decedent's domicile.
- Where was the decedent domiciled? Frequently the decedent's domicile and the decedent's residency may be the same, but the terms are not synonymous. The term domicile commonly means an individual's true, fixed and permanent home based on (1) physical presence in a jurisdiction, and (2) the intent to remain there indefinitely.³ The test for domicile depends on an individual's intention and is based heavily on the facts and circumstances. In cases where domicile is not clear, some indicators include determining the nature of a decedent's residence (temporary or fixed), where the decedent voted, where the decedent claimed a homestead exemption for property tax purposes, which state issued him a driver's license, where his primary banking accounts were located, where his primary physician and other professionals are located, and where the decedent retained memberships or primarily participated in activities.
 - *Practice pointer: When clients change domicile and move to a new state, they should consider retaining an attorney in the new jurisdiction to prepare new estate planning documents for them to help confirm and establish their new domicile.*
- Where did the decedent own property? For real property owned outright by a decedent, the law of the state where real property is located will govern its administration.⁴ If the decedent owns real property in more than one state, it is possible that multiple probate proceedings will be required, known as ancillary probate proceedings.
 - Practice pointer: Consider placing out-of-state real property into trust title or even an LLC or other entity to avoid subjecting the property to ancillary probate proceedings.

B. Pros and Cons of Probate

Probate is often viewed as something to be avoided at all costs. To some extent, this attitude is rooted in the 1965 self-published book by Norman Dacey entitled "How to Avoid Probate!" in which Dacey argued that "probate serves no purpose, takes too long, and permits lawyers and personal representatives to enrich themselves at the expense of decedents and their loved ones.”⁵ Commentators have identified this book as fueling “scores of articles in newspapers and law journals that echoed Dacey’s criticisms.”⁶ In some cases, these criticisms have become widely-held views, so that many clients begin with a mindset that a formal probate proceeding should be avoided at all costs. In truth, the probate process varies from one jurisdiction to the next, and these impressions may be simple misconceptions the family has formed based on experiences and impressions heard from others. In Illinois, the added expense and time to open a formal probate proceeding may be insignificant in light of the advantages to be gained in a particular situation.

³ 25 Am. Jur. Domicil § 1 (2012).

⁴ RESTATEMENT (SECOND) CONFLICT OF LAWS § 239 (1971).

Some Pros to Consider:

- Provides greater finality in resolving claims and disputes against decedent
- Provides a forum for court guidance and direction regarding uncertain issues
- Can facilitate collection of assets and transfer of title

Some Cons to Balance:

- Can compromise privacy
- Takes Time: Court calendar, statutory notice and time frames
- Requires attorney fees and court filing costs
- Subject to court control (to some extent) – Supervised vs. Independent Administration

C. When is Formal Probate Necessary or Desirable?

Even though probate might not be necessary, the circumstances may make probate a desirable option.⁷ For a decedent with suspected but unknown creditors, a probate proceeding can provide finality to bar claims not filed within the Illinois statutory six-month claims period. See 755 ILCS § 5/18-1 et seq. If a dispute regarding title to property arises, a citation to discover or recover assets could prove helpful in resolving ownership. See 755 ILCS § 5/16-1. Where heirship is uncertain, a probate proceeding can provide a conclusive determination regarding the identity of a decedent’s heirs. See 755 ILCS § 5/5-3. Where a disposition under the Will is ambiguous or a scrivener’s error causes doubt regarding the estate’s administration, a construction action may be desirable to provide the representative with comfort or direction on the proper disposition of assets. Court approval of accounts can help foreclose potential claims by nonresponsive beneficiaries and bless

III. Nuts & Bolts of Formal Probate Court Proceedings

As in the case of the overarching governing law, an attorney should be conscious of the applicable rules that may apply to the probate court proceedings depending on the county in which the probate proceeding will be brought. The probate court clerk of Cook County and clerks in the collar counties provide forms and resources that can be adapted for use in other counties, and frequently a probate court clerk will entertain questions and assist attorneys who simply want to comply with local processes.

A sampling of the probate court forms to open a Cook County probate estate is attached as Exhibit B. For a detailed discussion of the court forms and steps to opening a probate estate, see Opening the Probate Estate and Alternatives to Probate by Kim Kamin, Illinois Estate Administration, Volume I, Chapter 2, Institute for Continuing Legal Education (2014).

IV. Basic Powers and Duties of an Executor in Independent Administration (755 ILCS § 5/28-1)

The primary duties and powers of an executor are often stated in a decedent's Will and are in addition to the duties and powers detailed in the Illinois Probate Act, unless the Will provides otherwise.⁹ In addition to the terms of the document and statutory laws, Illinois common law imposes fiduciary duties on an executor, a few of which are highlighted below. In the ordinary course of estate administration, the primary focus of an executor's time will be on marshalling and collecting the decedent's assets, communicating with beneficiaries, accounting for income and disbursements, managing property, and making distributions to beneficiaries.

A. Duties of Loyalty and Care

One seemingly obvious but sometimes overlooked duty is the duty to administer the estate in accordance with the terms of the Will. Occasionally what is provided for in the Will may seem contrary to the decedent's intent, as described by his beneficiaries or other advisors. It is important to keep in mind that the decedent and his attorney prepared this document, presumably after consultation and advice, so that the executor does not have liberty to interpret the document by adding or substituting terms. This can be particularly challenging where a scrivener's error affects the dispositive provisions, where tax clauses lead to an unequal result, or where relationships have changed and the decedent failed to update his Will to reflect those changes. Notwithstanding these changes, the executor is bound to abide by the document's terms unless a construction action or judicial modification can be approved by the probate court.

⁹ See Exhibit C for a sample annotated form of Will (Executor Powers Article SIXTH). Readers, including professionals, should not rely on the form as a complete or current form and are cautioned that this form may not suit a client's particular needs. Readers, including legal professionals, are fully responsible for ensuring a Will suits the circumstances and/or client's legal needs, including those subscribed by the Illinois Rules of Professional Conduct.

B. Pay Expenses, Satisfy Debts, and Pay Taxes

In some cases, an executor may play a role in making burial arrangements at death. In the vast majority of cases, an executor will be involved in at least paying for burial expenses and determining their tax treatment.

To the extent the decedent had any outstanding debts (including insolvency or bankruptcy), was involved in ongoing litigation, or had obligations that are not otherwise extinguished by death, the executor (as fiduciary) steps into the decedent's shoes and is required to continue or settle those matters subject to the fiduciary duties of care and loyalty. See e.g., 755 ILCS §§ 5/19-14, 5/19-11, 5/20-16, 5/20-17, 5/18-15, 5/27-6.

Because some expenses may be deductible for estate tax or income tax purposes (or both), as noted below, the executor should keep careful records of all payments made and keep funds carefully segregated in a separate estate account.

C. Duties to Collect Assets, Inform and Account

The admission of a Will to probate and the appointment of the executor by the probate court serves as the executor's authority to collect the decedent's assets.¹⁰ An executor should begin by making a complete inventory of the decedent's assets and keep careful records of items received, payments disbursed and distributions made. See 755 ILCS § 5/24-1 et seq. Before the probate proceeding can be closed in Independent Administration, the executor will need the beneficiaries to approve his accounts and administration, so keeping good records is essential to providing accurate and complete information to the estate's beneficiaries and the court. 755 ILCS § 5/28-11.

D. Invest and manage funds

With respect to managing and investing estate assets, it is important to carefully review any provisions of the Will that address investments or could affect the sale or retention of particular assets. In addition to the investment provisions contained in the Will, the Illinois Probate Act identifies a number of approved investment vehicles and imposes some limitations. See 755 ILCS § 5/21-1 et seq. For example, section 5/21-2.12 limits investments in stock concentrations unless permitted by the terms of the Will.

The standards of the Prudent Investor Rule have been incorporated into the Trusts and Trustees Act to impose the prudent investor rule on trustees. See 760 ILCS § 5/5. Depending on the terms of the Will, these principles might be extended to executors; however, it is important to keep in mind that the process of estate administration differs from trust administration in several key aspects, one in particular being that the estate administration period is generally shorter and so “prudent investment” of estate funds will often involve a shorter time horizon, differing cash needs, and fixed deadlines for tax and other payments owing.

E. Distribute Assets

Before the probate court will discharge an executor, a final report is required to be filed to confirm that all taxes, expenses and debts have been satisfied, claims settled, and assets distributed to the proper beneficiaries. See Sample Cook County Probate Court forms attached, Exhibit B. The beneficiaries of the estate will be required to receive a copy of the final report and to either receive formal notice of the executor’s petition for discharge and to close the estate, or alternatively, they must waive formal notice and confirm each beneficiary has received the share to which he or she is entitled. Where a decedent’s trust is a beneficiary of a pour-over will, the Illinois Appellate Court has held that the beneficiaries of the trust are required to receipt for the property received from the estate. See Norris v. Estate of Norris, 143 Ill. App. 3d 741 (1986); Rules of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Rule 12.9(c)(iii).

- Practice pointer: An executor should consider asking beneficiaries to execute a formal agreement acknowledging the receipt of the share to which the beneficiary is entitled, approving the executor’s accounts, waiving formal notice, releasing the executor for all claims relating to the administration of the estate, and agreeing to refund any funds distributed if liabilities subsequently arise. If an executor distributes assets without such refunding protection and liabilities later arise, the executor could have personal liability for satisfying those amounts and would need to seek refunding in court.
- Practice pointer: For amounts distributable to charitable organizations or other entities, the executor should obtain a copy of the charitable organization’s tax-exemption letter and ensure that any individual signing on behalf of the entity is authorized to do so.

V. Common Questions and Troubleshooting

A. Is an Executor Entitled to Compensation?

This question often arises when a family member is designated as executor or administrator. First, look to the terms of the document to determine whether it imposes any limitations on or offers parameters for an executor's compensation. If the document does not provide otherwise, a representative in Illinois is entitled to reasonable compensation for his services. 755 ILCS § 5/27-1. What does "reasonable" mean? There is no statutory definition, but in determining what is reasonable, courts have considered factors such as an executor's hourly rate (particularly if the executor is an attorney or accountant), the complexity and time required to administer the estate, whether the executor brings special skills to the role, and the overall market value of the assets in the estate (e.g., if fees are charged as a percentage of the estate's value).

B. What if the Executor Isn't Doing His Job?

The process of estate administration is necessarily complex, as it can combine elements of family disharmony, surprise, financial windfall (or disappointment), and may prompt beneficiaries to recall promises made by the decedent. The decedent is no longer available to speak for himself, so the executor can easily find himself in a situation where one or some of the beneficiaries are displeased. It is important to distinguish between scenarios where a beneficiary is unhappy with the result created (i.e., by the document, applicable law, or tax consequences) as compared to the actions of the executor. In the latter, a beneficiary may have a valid claim against an executor for neglecting his duties, making errors, or intentional wrongdoing that damages the estate, and consequently, the beneficiary's interest.

1. Communication and Resignation

In scenarios where an executor is either not responsive or uncooperative, for whatever reason, one option may be to discuss resignation. See 755 ILCS § 5/23-1. For instance, a family member may have agreed to act as executor only to later learn how time consuming the obligation can be when juggled with ordinary work, family and other obligations. Under those circumstances, the option of resignation may even come as a relief for an overextended executor who lacks time to give proper attention to administration demands. If no successor executor is named in the Will, the Illinois Probate Act provides a process for appointing a successor executor by petition in the probate court. See 755 ILCS 5/6-2.

2. Judicial Relief

In circumstances where an executor has failed to perform duties or has committed fraud, waste, or other malfeasance, a beneficiary of the estate may have standing to bring a court action against the executor. As a fiduciary, the executor owes duties to the beneficiaries and can be held accountable by the probate court for both money damages and equitable relief. In instances where the executor's behavior is particularly egregious, the court may remove the executor and impose personal liability. In terms of equitable relief, a beneficiary could seek removal of the executor, which requires a higher standard of misconduct. 755 ILCS § 5/23-2. It is also important to note that the Will itself may limit an executor's liability so that simple negligence alone may not create liability even if a technical error is committed by the executor.

3. Alternative Dispute Resolution

While alternative dispute resolution (ADR) techniques like mediation and arbitration are becoming increasingly more common ways for resolving trust and estate disputes, the nature of trust and estate disputes often requires a mediator or arbitrator to possess specialized, technical legal knowledge; otherwise, unintended or adverse tax effects could result as a consequence of settlement.

Courts have been reluctant to bind beneficiaries to ADR clauses contained in Wills and trusts because the beneficiaries are not "parties" to the Will; therefore, public policy has favored allowing beneficiaries to seek court remedies notwithstanding provisions of a Will requiring non-judicial settlements. From a practical standpoint, ADR may be worth exploring when intangible remedies are sought that could not be obtained judicially, where privacy is particularly important to a family, or where a family relationship would be irreparable if court resolution is the only option pursued.

C. Practical Solutions and Executor Liability

Because an executor, as a fiduciary, is subject to a very high standard of care, it is advisable for an executor to consult with an attorney who specializes in estate administration to obtain advice regarding the process, duties and requirements for administering the decedent's estate. To mitigate executor liability, an executor could enter into a formal agreement with the estate's beneficiaries to obtain a release for claims relating to the estate's administration as well as an agreement to refund amounts to the estate if subsequent liabilities arise. The most effective way to mitigate liability can often be to simply establish positive communication with beneficiaries, provide regular updates as the estate's administration progresses, listen and be responsive to beneficiary concerns, and finally, establish a relationship of trust and confidence with beneficiaries by learning about their concerns, needs and questions throughout the process.

Checklist to Determine the Need for Formal Probate in Illinois

1. Does the value of the assets titled in the name of the decedent alone at death and not payable on death by operation of law to a named beneficiary (other than to the decedent's estate) exceed $100,000?
2. Is there disharmony among the heirs, legatees or other interested parties that could potentially lead to a will contest or other litigation against the estate?
3. Was the decedent in a risky profession (i.e. law, medicine, etc.) or did the decedent have an ownership interest (either individually or through a trust or other entity) in risky assets (i.e. commercial or residential real estate) that may result in claims from unknown creditors that are not immediately identifiable or ascertainable?
4. Has the decedent disinherited any heirs pursuant to the terms of the will and/or a revocable trust to which the residue of the probate estate is payable?
5. Are there insufficient assets in the estate such that legitimate claims of creditors may need to be disallowed or reduced or such that specific legacies may need to be eliminated or partially abated?
6. Are there debts owed to the decedent or assets owned by the decedent that may necessitate the opening of a probate estate in order to pursue litigation or a citation action in order to collect them?
7. Is there a need to initiate or continue litigation on behalf of the decedent for a personal injury, wrongful death or some other cause of action to which the decedent may have been a party?
8. Did the decedent possess a testamentary power of appointment that may require probate in order to affect the exercise or non-exercise of said power?
9. Is there a family member or tenant who is refusing to vacate real estate owned by the estate or by the revocable inter vivos trust?
10. Will ancillary administration in a foreign jurisdiction be required?
11. Are there any out-of-wedlock children or other persons claiming heirship who have surfaced since the decedent's death or who were previously unknown to the decedent's other heirs?
12. Are there any other reasons why the executor may need to shorten the period for claims against the estate from two years (from the date of death) to six months (from the date of publication of notice to unknown creditors)?
13. Is there something that just doesn't smell right?

RIGHT OF HEIRS OR LEGATEES (APPLICABLE WHERE DECEDENT LEFT A WILL)

Within 42 days after the effective date of the original order of admission, any heir or legatee may file a petition with the court to require proof of the will by testimony of the witnesses to the will in open court or other evidence, as provided in section 6-21 of the Probate Act of 1975. (755 ILCS 5/6-21)

Each heir or legatee also has the right under section 8-1 or 8-2 of the Illinois Probate Act of 1975 (755 ILCS 5/8-1, 8-2) to contest the validity of the will or the denial of admission by filing a petition with the court within six months after entry of the order admitting or denying the will.

RIGHTS OF INTERESTED PERSONS DURING INDEPENDENT ADMINISTRATION (APPLICABLE WHERE AN INDEPENDENT REPRESENTATIVE IS APPOINTED)

Independent administration means that the executor or administrator will not have to obtain court orders or file estate papers in court during probate. The estate will be administered without court supervision unless an interested person asks the court to become involved.

Under section 28-4 of the Probate Act of 1975 (755 ILCS 5/28-4), any interested person may terminate independent administration at any time by mailing or delivering a petition to terminate to the clerk of the court. However, if there is a will which directs independent administration, independent administration will be terminated only if the court finds there is good cause to require supervised administration; and if the petitioner is a creditor or nonresiduary legatee, independent administration will be terminated only if the court finds that termination is necessary to protect the petitioner's interest.

In addition to the right to terminate independent administration, any interested person may petition the court to hold a hearing and resolve any particular question that may arise during independent administration, even though supervised administration has not been requested (755 ILCS 5/28-5). The independent representative must mail or deliver a copy of the estate inventory and accounting to each interested person, and must send notice to or obtain the approval of each interested person before the estate can be closed (755 ILCS 5/28-6, 28-11). Any interested person has the right to question or object to any item included in or omitted from any inventory or account or to insist on a full court accounting of all receipts and disbursements with prior notice, as required in supervised administration (755 ILCS 5/28-11).

I, _____, of _____,

_____, make this my will and revoke all prior wills and codicils.

[OPTION 1 for 1st ¶ of Tax Clause: If Client Married or Widowed]

FIRST: Payment of Taxes and Expenses. My executor shall pay from the residue of my estate all expenses of my last illness and funeral, costs of administration including ancillary, costs of safeguarding and delivering legacies, debts allowable as claims against my estate (excluding debts secured by real property or life insurance), and other proper charges against my estate. My executor shall also pay from the residue of my estate all estate and inheritance taxes [and generation-skipping taxes on direct skips of which I am the transferor, which are] assessed by reason of my death, including such taxes on property passing outside this will, except that (a) the amount, if any, by which the estate and inheritance taxes shall be increased as a result of the inclusion in my estate for tax purposes of property in which I may have a qualifying income interest for life (hereinafter in this article referred to as “QTIP property”), [and] (b) the amount of estate and inheritance taxes, if any, which would be deemed attributable to property under Internal Revenue Code Section 2207 (as in effect on the date of this instrument), computed on the assumption that QTIP property was not included in my gross estate, [and (c) the amount, if any, of generation-skipping taxes caused by a disclaimer or by a direct skip from a trust not established by me,] shall be paid by the person holding or receiving that property. Interest and penalties concerning any tax shall be paid and charged in the same manner as the tax. I hereby waive for my estate all rights of reimbursement for any payments made pursuant to this article. [CONSIDER: If, however, the cash and readily marketable assets in my estate are insufficient to make the foregoing payments in full, my executor shall certify to the then acting trustee[s] of the [trust agreement/declaration of trust] hereafter mentioned the amount of the insufficiency for payment.]

[OPTION 2 for 1st ¶ of Tax Clause: If Client Not Married]

FIRST: Payment of Taxes and Expenses. My executor shall pay from the residue of my estate all expenses of my last illness and funeral, costs of administration including ancillary, costs of safeguarding and delivering legacies, debts allowable as claims against my estate (excluding debts secured by real property or life insurance), and other proper charges against my estate. My executor shall also pay from the residue of my estate all estate and inheritance taxes [and generation-skipping taxes on direct skips of which I am the transferor, which are] assessed by reason of my death, including such taxes on property passing outside this will, except that [(a)] the amount of estate and inheritance taxes, if any, attributable to any property over which I may have power of appointment[,] [and (b) the amount, if any, of generation-skipping taxes caused by a disclaimer or by a direct skip from a trust not established by me,] shall be paid by the person holding or receiving that property. Interest and penalties concerning any tax shall be paid and charged in the same manner as the tax. I hereby waive for my estate all rights of reimbursement for any payments made pursuant to this article. [CONSIDER: If, however, the cash and readily marketable assets in my estate are insufficient to make the foregoing payments in full, my executor shall certify to the then acting trustee[s] of the [trust agreement/declaration of trust] hereafter mentioned the amount of the insufficiency for payment.]

My executor's selection of assets to be sold to make the foregoing payments or to satisfy any pecuniary legacies, and the tax effects thereof, shall not be subject to question by any beneficiary.

My executor shall make such elections and allocations under the tax laws as my executor deems advisable. Elections and allocations shall be made without regard to the relative interests of the beneficiaries and shall not be subject to question by any person. No adjustment shall be made between principal and income or in the relative interests of the beneficiaries to compensate for the effect of elections or allocations under the tax laws made by my executor [CONSIDER: or by the trustee[s] under the [trust agreement/declaration of trust] hereafter mentioned].

between income and principal; to deal with the fiduciary of any trust or estate in which any beneficiary under this will or under the aforementioned [trust agreement/declaration of trust] has an interest, though an executor hereunder is such fiduciary; and to execute and deliver necessary instruments and give full receipts and discharges.

[CONSIDER:] I also give my executor the power to retain any business interest (specifically including any interest in _____), without application to any court, as shareholder, security holder, creditor, partner, member, or otherwise, for any period of time whatsoever, even though it may constitute all or a large portion of my estate; to comply with the provision of any agreement restricting transfer of any business interest; to exercise any and all stock options which I may possess at the time of my death; to participate in the conduct of any business or rely upon others to do so, and to take or delegate to others discretionary power to take any action with respect to its management and affairs which an individual could take as owner of such business interest, including, but not limited to, (a) voting of stock and determination of all questions of policy, (b) execution of partnership agreements, operating agreements, and amendments to such agreements, (c) participation in any incorporation, formation, reorganization, merger, consolidation, sale of assets, recapitalization, liquidation or dissolution of any such business or any change in its nature, or buy-sell, stock restriction or stock redemption agreements, (d) investment in additional stock or securities of, or making secured, unsecured or subordinated loans to, any such business, with estate funds, and (e) election or employment with compensation, as directors, officers, general partners, managers, employees or agents of any business, of any persons, including any executor hereunder or any director, officer, employee or agent of a corporate executor; to rely upon reports of certified public accountants as to the operations and financial condition of any such business, without independent investigation; and, if any such business is so continued, my executor shall incur no liability for any loss to my estate arising therefrom.]

[CONSIDER: My executor shall have power to inspect and monitor businesses and real property (whether held directly or through a partnership, corporation, limited liability company, trust or other entity) for environmental conditions or possible violations of environmental laws; to remediate environmentally-damaged property or to take steps to prevent environmental damage in the future, even if no action by public or private parties is currently pending or threatened; and to abandon or refuse to accept property that may have environmental damage. My executor may expend estate funds to do the foregoing, and no action or failure to act by my executor pursuant to this power shall be subject to question by any beneficiary.]

The foregoing powers shall be exercised by my executor without authorization by any court and, as to property subject to administration outside the state of my domicile, only with the approval of my domiciliary executor. No bond or security shall be required of any executor wherever acting. The administration of my estate shall be independent of the supervision of any court, if permitted by law and if my executor does not otherwise elect.

If any property hereunder would upon receipt by the trustee[s] of the aforementioned [trust agreement/declaration of trust] be required to be distributed to a beneficiary of that trust, my executor may make distribution without the intervention of the trustee[s].

(d) Reliance and Release. Any person, corporation, or financial institution who acts in good faith reliance on a copy of a document purporting to be a small estate affidavit that is substantially in compliance with subsection (b) of the Section shall be fully protected and released upon payment, delivery, transfer, access or issuance pursuant to such a document to the same extent as if the payment, delivery, transfer, access or issuance had been made or granted to the representative of the estate. Such person, corporation, or financial institution is not required to see to the application or disposition of the property; but each person to whom a payment, delivery, transfer, access or issuance is made or given is answerable therefor to any person having a prior right and is accountable to any representative of the estate.

(e) Distributions pursuant to an affidavit substantially in the form set forth in subsection (b) of the Section may be made to the affiant, if so specified in paragraph 11, notwithstanding the disclosure of known unpaid debts. The affiant, acting on behalf of the decedent's estate, is obligated to pay all valid claims against the decedent's estate before any distribution is made to any heir or legatee. The affiant signing the small estate affidavit prepared pursuant to subsection (b) of this Section shall indemnify and hold harmless all creditors, heirs, and legatees of the decedent and other persons, corporations, or financial institutions relying upon the affidavit who incur loss because of such reliance. That indemnification shall only be up to the amount lost because of the act or omission of the affiant. Any person, corporation, or financial institution recovering under this subsection (e) shall be entitled to reasonable attorney's fees and the expenses of recovery.

(f) The affiant of a small estate affidavit who is a non-resident of Illinois submits himself or herself to the jurisdiction of Illinois courts for all matters related to the preparation or use of the affidavit. The affidavit shall provide the name, address, and phone number of a person whom the affiant names as his agent for service of process. If no such person is named or if, for any reason, service on the named person cannot be effectuated, the clerk of the circuit court of the county or judicial circuit of which the decedent was a resident at the time of his death shall be the agent for service of process.

(g) Any action properly taken under this Section, as amended by Public Act 93-877, on or after August 6, 2004 (the effective date of Public Act 93-877) is valid regardless of the date of death of the decedent.

(h) The changes made by this amendatory Act of the 96th General Assembly apply to a decedent whose date of death is on or after the effective date of this amendatory Act of the 96th General Assembly.

(i) The changes made by this amendatory Act of the 98th General Assembly apply to a decedent whose date of death is on or after the effective date of this amendatory Act of the 98th General Assembly.
